SKIERS HELD TRIALS YEST. FOR CARNIVAL

Ski Dash To Be Held Feb. 4, Cross-Country Feb. 5.

EVENTS WERE KEEN.

Noble Birks, O. Leslie, R. Whittal and E. Sherrard To Compose Team.

The first elimination trials took place at the Montreal Ski Club Jumps on Cote des Neiges Hill. These were carried out most successfully under the able direction of Mr. Tollefsen and Mr. Berger, both of the M.S.C., who acted as judges. The few spectators who made the trip to the jumps were treated to an exhibition of first-class ski-ing and jumping.

Owing to the Park Slide being in such an icy condition, the proficiency test was held over by the Senior Jumps. This proved to be a very keenly contested event, as was anticipated. A very excellent exhibition was given by all the entries, who numbered about fifteen. Noble Birks, of Macdonald, proved to be the best one, winning the event with a total of 51 points out of a possible 70. Ogilvie Leslie came a close second with 50 points. As the ground was in very bad condition, the test was a very hard one indeed. Alex. Glen was third, with 42 points. This event gives Macdonald five points; Science, three, and Arts and Commerce, one—in the Inter-faculty competition.

The jumping then followed, and after a few trial jumps, the competition opened. This event was a very successful one, and the team will be strengthened by several very good men in this event. Ralph Whittall, last year's International Ski Champion, carried off this event with a jump of 71 feet. His style was all that could be desired, and unless something unforeseen happens, McGill ought to easily carry off this event in the coming carnivals. Eddie Sherrard came second in this event with a jump of 62 feet. His style was also very good, and in this event McGill ought to easily carry off the points. Gravel, of Science '24, was third. As all these men are in Science, this makes the faculty standing as follows: Science, 10; Macdonald, 5, and Arts-Commerce, 3.

Therefore, from the two events that were held to-day, the following men will be on the team to go to Dartmouth to represent McGill in these events: N. Birks, O. Leslie in the proficiency test, and R. Whittall and E. Sherrard in the jumping. The remainder of the team will be chosen on Friday and Saturday, when the other two events will take place. The ski dash will be held on the old campus at five p.m. on Friday. The cross country will take place on Saturday afternoon. These two events should be very keenly contested, as all the participants are experts in this line of ski-ing, and all are anxious to make the team. The entries for the cross-country close on Friday night. Entries may be made on the lists posted in the Arts, Medical and Science Buildings, also in the Union. The results of the cross-country run will be posted in the Union about 6 o'clock on Saturday

TOWNSHIPPERS' REVEL LAST NIGHT

E. T. Dance an Unqualified Success From Start to Finish.

To say that the Eastern Townships' Club dance held in Alexander Hall was a success, is to put it very mildly indeed. In fact the evening eclipsed the most sanguine expectations of the executive.

Everything went off without a hitch—a good crowd was present, the music was superb, the refreshments were delicious. What more is needed to make a perfect dance?

The success of this affair merely serves to show again the capability of the sectional clubs of the University in arranging social functions.

DOGS OF WAR AWAY AGAIN AT THE HALL

Will Once More Show Their Teeth to 'Varsity.

5.15 TO-NIGHT.

Turn Out and Help Our Team to Finish on Top.

To-night at 5.10, Standard time, in the Assembly Hall of Strathcona Hall, the hounds of victory will once again cut loose. By this we mean that the grand old Rooters' Club of last fall's football fame will again endeavor to break into the scoring column by organizing a definite plan of attack in preparation for the Varsity-McGill game on Saturday next.

It is now well on in the week, and a speedy getaway is all necessary. The team is in the finest of fettle for the game, and the support of the students, organized and together, is an essential factor in the outcome of this all important game.

Everyone will remember with much pride the successful work the "Thundering Thousand" pulled off at the games last fall, and there is no doubt that they will not let their reputation fall in the hockey matches about to be played. The team, who have been doing their best, are counting on a grand turnout of the yelling clan, and claim that to win they have to have it. Varsity has a team even stronger than last year's outfit, which carried away the bacon, and by what the scribes say are right out for more. The question is, are they going to be let run at large, or are we going to send them home to Toronto with the couldn't score sign up? It all remains with the Rooters, and if the old spirit is with them that they had during the football season, well, we're away in a whirlwind of glory.

As for the practice in the hall to-night. It will be a peppery workout of a few songs and yells, featuring a couple of new hockey war-whoops. Everyone should be out to get these new ones away right. Also preparations for organized rooting at the basketball game Saturday will be announced and a general plan of assembly for the war-painted leatherlugs at the hockey game. Joe Wain and Teedles will be in the chair, and will help to put a little action into the proceedings.

Everybody who possibly can turn out is needed to make this go, and the practice will be a good half-hour's enthusiastic work, in which everyone will get a chance to oil up his old wind-pipes for Saturday.

It is hoped that the gang will be down so as the curtain can go up sharp at 5:10. So do your best to be down sharp on time, and also bring the gang with you. Round up your class-mates right away, so as any who didn't read the "Daily" to-day and don't know there is a practice on, will have a chance of getting in on the inside dope.

Again, 5.10 to-night—Strathcona Hall. All out and at 'em.

FINALISTS OF B., W. AND F. DECIDED UPON

Final Bouts of Eliminations Last Evening.

300 ATTENDED.

Contests Were Marked By Good Sportsmanship Throughout.

The final bouts in boxing, wrestling and fencing for the college championships were held in the Union last night. The bouts began at twenty minutes past eight before a fair crowd of three to four hundred. A. V. Hamilton, better known, perhaps, as "Lightning" Hamilton, ex-champion lightweight of Canada, refereed the wrestling.

A wrestling bout in the 110-lb. class was the first on the programme, when Proctor, of Med. '26, and Bryant, Sci. '24, contended for the championship. Bryant gained the first fall with a headlock after about three minutes of wrestling. Proctor gained the second with a chancery and bar in another three minutes. The first period ended with one fall each, and a second was called for, Bryant winning the bout.

The next bout was also a wrestling one, a semi-final in the 135-lb. class. Mader put up a good fight, but Currie, with his scissor, was more aggressive. There was no fall, but Currie was given the decision.

Reid, Sci. '23, and Macdonald, Med. '26, fought it out in the 118-lb. class. The first period was very close, with no fall on either side. A second one was called for, and Macdonald won the bout on points.

A boxing bout was next held, and in regard to the boxing it does seem a pity that in a university the size of McGill, with over twenty-five hundred students, that there was only one man in each of the following classes: the flyweight, welterweight, middleweight and heavyweight. Surely there are more students of that weight at McGill who can box.

Becking, Sci. '24, and Chisholm, Law '21, were the contenders for the 118-lb. championship. In the last round Chisholm had the advantage, getting Becking several times with a good uppercut. The second round was more even, but in the third, Chisholm was the better, and won the decision.

Matthews, Med. '24, college champion (125 lbs.), and Clement, Med. '25, gave an exhibition bout, as Clement was unable to make the weight. This proved a very interesting bout.

The only fencing of the evening was between Crestohl and Walter. Walter won in a hard-fought contest by 5 points to 4.

Mirsky, Arts '21, and Sharp, Sci. '24, gave an exhibition of boxing. Mirsky is the 110-lb. champion of McGill. The bought was exciting.

Edelberg, Arts '24, and Winslow, Commerce '23, battled for the 125-lb. championship in boxing. Edelberg outclassed Winslow, and the bout was stopped in the second round.

Montgomery, Comm. '23, and Emmons, Med. '24, were the aspirants in the final of the 145-lb. wrestling. The bout was won by Montgomery,

BASKETBALLERS TO LEAVE FOR QUEEN'S

First Time R. V. C. Has Gone Against Outside Universities.

For the first time in the history of the University the women students of McGill are sending a basketball team to contend on a foreign field for Inter-Collegiate honors. The R.V.C. team leaves this morning at 10 o'clock from the G.T.R. Station for Kingston, where they will have a chance to play both Queen, and Varsity's Co-ed teams. All out, rooters, and give the girls a rousing send-off! This is your chance, McGill, to reciprocate the backing-up the Co-eds gave you, not so very long ago "on a cold and frosty morning!"

THE SPIRIT OF THE GAME

In past years no branch of amateur sport has enjoyed, and rightly enjoyed, a better reputation for clean and fair competition than amateur sport. This is what is to be expected from college men—the realization that the mere winning or losing is of little or no importance, but the prime consideration is that the game shall be fought on its merits, without recourse to any of the unsportsmanlike devices of the professional whose chief object is to win at any cost.

It is with considerable regret, therefore, that we have to draw attention to the deplorable prevalence of rough and deliberately foul play in the inter-class hockey games. This has been on the increase during the past week or so and must be discouraged immediately if the all-important spirit of the game is to be preserved.

In the cases which have come under our notice, the first team offending in this respect have met with as prompt retaliation, and the games have in some instances degenerated into mere "rough-house."

There is little doubt that this is merely a passing vogue, but it must be nipped in the bud before it has a chance to become chronic and so defeat the real "raison d'etre" of all sport—the promulgation of physical exercise and the inculcation of a spirit of fair-play.

We may fairly cite the example of last night's B., W. and F. tournament as showing the typical college spirit of sportsmanship. Hard knocks were taken and given without the slightest trace of animus or personal feeling on either side—the applause of the spectators was as much for a defeated candidate who put up a game fight as for the successful contestant.

Such is the spirit of true sport and everyone should make it his personal affair to see that the present high standard of college athletics shall not be lowered or marred by a further recurrence of any form of unsportsmanlike play.

COMMERCE OFFER IS UNPRECEDENTED

Ten Dollars For Best Illustration For Commerce Section in Annual.

The Commercial Society is offering a prize of Ten Dollars for a drawing! Here is a chance for some hard-up artist to win a little extra cigarette money, or to take his ladylove to the North Eastern for a treat, or for some other purpose. The ten dollars is there to be won by someone, and the specifications of the contest are as follows:

The drawing is to be of a suitable subject for the title page of the Commerce Department. The Art Editor of the Annual will be glad to give any suggestions or ideas on the subject. There is always one page before each section, Arts, Medicine, Science, Commerce, with subtitle pages for the different years, and it is this page for which the prize is offered.

The drawing must be on white paper done in black India Ink and should be 8¼ x 11 inches in size. The Annual is to be a little larger than usual this year so that ample space is provided for an artistic treatment of the subject.

This unique contest is open to all faculties in the University, and it is expected that a number of fine drawings will be handed in. Of course only one will be selected for a prize, and the Society does not obligate itself to pay the prize money if the drawing in its opinion is not worthy of it. However, this is an eventuality that is not likely to occur. If the drawings can be used for some other section of Commerce besides the title page, they will then compete in whatever competition the Annual Board may have.

There will be three competent judges, all highly qualified to pick the best out of a number of entries, and the pictures will be judged not only from an artistic point of view but also with an eye to their suitability for reproduction on paper.

This is a most important feature that most amateur drawers neglect, and frequently a very fine drawing, due to its fine shading and close work is quite unsuitable for reproduction. A study of previous Annuals will reveal the best style of drawing for this purpose.

A word about the date. The competition closes on February 15th, so all you budding artists get busy. This is a free for all, and no favorites played, that's fair enough isn't it? If the drawings are handed to O'Brien or Fraser of Commerce '22 through the Arts Janitor, they will see that they are entered in the proper way. Remember then "Commerce" is the subject, 8¼ x 11 the size, black and white the color, and Feb'y 15th the last date for entries. Not to omit the fact that ten iron men is the reward!!

ARTS UNDERGRADS. HOLD MEETING

Discussed Annual Dinner and Memorial Tablet.

A meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society was held in the Arts Building yesterday afternoon, when important business was discussed. J. C. Farthing occupied the chair, but there was only a bare quorum present, although the students had been let out of lectures early for the occasion. It is most deplorable, and most discouraging to the executive that there are so few men who concern themselves with the manner in which their faculty business is conducted.

The matter of prime importance before the gathering was that of the memorial tablet. The president explained that the reason for the failure of the executive to place this in public view at once was due to their desire to include on its list everyone entitled to a place, and also to the fact that an intimation has reached the Arts Society that extensive alterations are to be carried out in the building. This latter announcement was greeted with loud approval.

Another question of great moment was that of the Arts dinner. It was moved that the function take place the first week in March. Last year, because of insufficient support, it was found impossible to carry the executive's plans for this affair through to a successful conclusion, but this session it is hoped, and expected, will see a revival of this excellent and popular feature of Old McGill.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Y.M.H.A. TEAM DEFEAT JUN. "B"

Basketball Game Was Very Fast—Score 30 to 22.

Junior "B" again suffered defeat last night, but though not victorious this squad played its best game of the season. Their passing and combination was the best yet, and the team as a whole worked to the limit till the last whistle.

Their opponents, the Y.M.H.A., have some of the best players in this section of the league, and their team work was especially creditable. They were very skilful in getting the ball back into play from the side lines, showing remarkable speed. The game throughout was rather rough, a total of fourteen foul shots being scored. Eight of these went to McGill and six to the Y.M.H.A.

The first half opened with a rush, and a fast pace was kept up throughout the game. The Y.M.H.A. had a decided advantage in this half, Junior "B" scoring only one field goal. The score at half-time was 17 to 7 in favor of the Y.M.H.A.

Junior "B's" shooting was better in the second half. In this period they managed to score six field goals, but the Y.M.H.A. just barely managed to keep their lead. The final score was 30 to 22 for the Y.M.H.A.

The game was handled in an admirable manner by Coach Van Wagner. Hornstein was umpire, and Van Vliet time-keeper.

The line-up was as follows:

Pts.	Junior "B"	Y.M.H.A.	Pts.
12	Read	Forward	Rapp 16
	Levy	Forward	Grossman 3
	Connor	Centre	Rafolvitch 9
2	Findlay	Guard	Itel 2

COMMERCE AND ARTS BATTLED TO 1-1 DRAW

Game Featured With Very Rough Play.

EXCITING GAME.

Arts Had Best of Play But Forced to Divide Points.

In what was really a disgraceful exhibition, Commerce '23 played Arts '23 to a 1-1 draw. The game was fast and exciting but was marred throughout by the deliberate rough play of Commerce and equally rough retaliation by Arts. Orr was disabled early in the game with a strained ankle, but the rough work still continued.

The game had a direct bearing on the championship, so both teams started out strongly. At first, Arts outplayed Commerce completely, but as the period wore on the play became more even. Connor and Badger became involved in a free fight, and both were penalized four minutes. Penalties followed fast. About five minutes before the end, Orr was tripped, and had to be carried off. The period closed with no score.

Commerce began the second period with a rush, and for a few minutes had decidedly the best of the play. The play again became even, and at length Cantley, with a brilliant individual rush, bored right in and scored for Arts. The game became faster, but the rough work continued. Brewer stopped a multitude of shots, but the Arts defence protected Amaron from many of Commerce's attempts. After five minutes, Connor scored on a pass from Ross, thus evening up the score. Both teams made desperate attempts to gain the lead, but the game ended with no further score.

Cantley and Badger played a fine game for Arts, while Johnson also did well. For Commerce, Brewer put up his usual fine exhibition in goal, Gault and Martin also starred.

The line-up:

Arts		Commerce
Duval	Centre	Connor
Cantley	Forward	Orr
Johnson	Forward	Martin
Badger	Defence	Gault
Craik	Defence	Montgomery
Amaron	Goal	Brewer

Subs. — Arts: Egg. Commerce: Gauthier, Bonavitsky, Ross.

SUMMARY.

First Period—No Score.

Second Period.

Arts '23 Cantley .. 8.00 min.
Commerce '23 .. Connor ... 4.30 min.

INTER-FACULTY STANDING.

	W.	L.	D.	Goals F.	A.	Pts
Sci. '24	3	1	0	6	2	6
Arts '23	2	0	1	13	1	5
Comm. '23	2	0	1	9	1	5
Med. '23	1	1	0	10	6	2
Law '21-'22	0	2	0	0	8	0
Dent. '23	0	3	0	2	23	0

To-night will witness a critical struggle between Med. '23 and Arts '23. On their showing Arts might be said to be favorites, but the Meds are quite likely to come through with a win. In addition, Commerce tackles Law, and should win their game.

McGill University,
Montreal, 2nd Feb., 1921.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Sir,—

Permit me to express a few thoughts arising out of the meeting on Tuesday, at which it was decided to abandon the Mock Parliament. It was alleged that the failure was due to apathy on the part of the students, and that accordingly the Literary and Debating Society did not feel inclined to squander its energies on this institution.

It should be borne in mind that such an institution is in no sense self-supporting, and that to begrudge the necessary initial impetus to start the ball rolling is a course slightly lacking in public spirit.

It is also evident that this activity should have been started much earlier in the season, and it is difficult to see why the initial interest in the work of the Literary and Debating Society should have been allowed to languish over several months. Last year the Mock Parliament was being organized before Christmas, and was away to a good start after Christmas. Men in the upper years are inclined to look with disfavor on activities which do not start until February, as the Examiner is always with us.

The fact that most of last year's leaders are now in their final year has not a little to do with their absence from the meeting. To attend the initial meeting was practically to invite re-election, and the labor connected with executive work is too much to expect of men in their senior year, who would nevertheless be eager to support the actual meetings.

May I suggest, Sir, that the Mock Parliament provides an excellent training in rules of order and procedure of which every student should avail himself, and that to preserve a decorous tone serious discussion is essential. The decision of the Literary and Debating Society to make the debates less formal would tend also to make them less effective and to introduce a spirit of levity. Last year's Burlesque was excellent as a theatrical entertainment, but distinctly out of keeping with the character and traditions of the Mock Parliament.

In conclusion, Sir, may I explain that it is far from my intent to cast aspersions on the abilities and integrity of those responsible, but I cannot help noticing that the official report of the meeting partook of the nature of an alibi. It is greatly to be deplored that the Literary and Debating Society should thus wash its hands of the matter and consign a time-honored and popular institution to the scrap heap.

Your faithfully,
H. WYATT JOHNSTON.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—

With reference to my letter which appeared in yesterday's "Daily", I have since learned that the article referred to was quite in accordance with Mr. Farthing's wishes, and I therefore gladly retract any statements of mine reflecting upon the representative of the "Daily" who edited the article.

Yours truly,
G. R. McCALL.

CERCLE FRANCAIS AND SOCIETE MEET

Commencement Scheduled For Eight-Fifteen in Cafeteria.

The annual joint meeting of the Cercle Francais and the Societe Francaise will be held in the McGill Union this evening.

Mention has been made before of the importance of this meeting primarily from a social point of view, and all members of the Cercle should make a point of being in attendance. The executive have had a great deal of trouble in arranging this meeting, owing to the natural difficulty of fixing on a date convenient for both Societies.

Proceedings will start at 8.15 sharp in the Cafeteria, and it is obviously advisable to start as soon as possible in order that the inevitable speech-making may be got over at an early hour to enable the participants to settle down to sterner business—that is to say the business of "On with the dance."

MR. W. H. GOODWIN SPEAKS AT HALL

Student Volunteer Movement Listened to Interesting Lecture on Japan.

Last evening Strathcona Hall was the scene of a very interesting meeting. Mr. Goodwin, recently returned from the World's Sunday School Congress, held in Tokio, Japan, spoke on his impressions received in Japan and the equipment the foreign missionary needed.

Mr. Goodwin, a very capable and impressive speaker, gave his general impressions of the country and its people. The speaker asked them not to delude themselves in thinking the Japanese were a heathen people, because they were far from that.

To him the Japanese seemed like a people just awakening and looking with contempt and disgust at the western civilization (America).

The Japanese were a brave and fearless people, thirsting for education, and stated that 98% of students that were attending school were attending because they wanted to. The demand for Universities in Japan could not be met by the government. The speaker further stated that it was a very common sight to see Japanese students on the street cars studying English and German Philosophy and Science.

Mr. Goodwin then turned his attention to the qualities that he thought necessary for a missionary to have. He placed foremost the acquiring of the personal touch. That missionaries should regard their work as the delivering of a message not from a person to a large crowd but as a message from one person to another. That it was also necessary to preach the gospel and not be contemptuous to the native religions. The successful missionary must of necessity be a diplomat. The speaker pointed out that the growing fear of a peril from the east need not be feared if the gospel be preached.

Another very essential thing for the missionary was a knowledge of the language and his knowledge should be such that he can speak fluently.

The acquisition of the language of symbols was very essential especially in the east where that language was most readily understood and the language which reached their hearts quickest.

The speaker at this juncture paid a tribute to the Japanese symbolism.

In conclusion Mr. Goodwin exhorted those who intended to go into foreign fields not to fear for themselves on account of political or other changes that might take place but that their plain duty was to preach the Gospel and political and other disturbances would right themselves and that the faithful preaching of the Gospel would indirectly restore peace to any existing troubles.

JUNIORS PLAY DRAWN GAME LAST NIGHT

McGill Led at End of First Half.

SCORE: 2 ALL.

Junior League Game Was Closely Contested Throughout.

McGill Juniors and Catholic High School played a drawn game last night in the Junior Hockey League, the score being 2 all. If anything, McGill had a shade the better of the play, showing more combination and team-work. Catholic High's second goal was decidedly lucky, and they relied too much on individual play. Their backchecking was not nearly as good as that of McGill, whose forwards were always back with the puck.

At the start of the game play was somewhat slow, but the teams soon settled down, and only good work on the part of both defences prevented a score. Fifteen minutes after play started McNaughton secured the puck at half way, fooled the defence, and shoved the rubber in behind Stevens. One minute later, McGibbon scored after a pretty piece of combination, he taking a pass from McNaughton and going right in on Stevens, who had no chance. McGill were all over Catholic High at this stage, and scored a third goal which, however, was disallowed by the referee.

In the second half Catholic High came back with a rush, and in five minutes succeeded in tying the score. Their first goal came as the result of a mix-up in front of the nets, and the second when a long shot was deflected from a McGill man's stick into the goal. From now on till the end of the game, play consisted in a series of end to end rushes, with Moran and Stevens both putting up wonderful displays in goal.

Time was called with the play in mid-ice. For McGill, Moran and McNaughton were the stars. McNaughton was easily the pick of the forwards. Johnson and Emo made a very good defence. For Catholic High, Kent and Stevens were the stars.

The teams:

McGill		Cath. High
Moran	Goal	Stevens
Emo	Defence	O'Rourke
Johnson	Defence	Kent
Lynch	Forward	Boyd
McNaughton	Forward	Thompson
McGibbon	Forward	Robinson
Price	Sub.	Wolfland
McKindsey	Sub.	Moore
Mitchell	Sub.	Gorman

College Clippings

Queen's Praises Our Senior Basketball Men.

The "Queen's Journal" pays a fitting tribute to the McGill Senior Basketball Team. Last Tuesday's game, which was won by us by a score of 28 to 21, seems to have made an impression. Here's what they wrote of the team: "They displayed a co-ordination, a finish beautiful to behold, and their confident, accurate passing was a real treat. In a word, they had class. Such was the machine which the Queen's team held to the insignificant margin of seven points."

Varsity Professor's Opinion.

According to Dr. Bruce MacDonald, of Toronto University, lectures are not the prime reason for attending a university. He emphasized the fact that the quiet virtues, as opposed to the heroic variety, are of tremendous importance and form an element in the personal equation which is really character. He deprecated the uselessness and unhappiness of any attempt to live alone without humanity. "On the whole," he continued, "we must learn to supplement the contributions of self with the very valuable contributions which others can make."

Freshmen Advisory Committees.

The University of Michigan is trying out a new advisory system for Freshmen this year. Each member of the Senior class has been appointed adviser for three Freshmen. The upper classmen are to help the new students get started in the university.

"Ghost Vote" at Harvard.

At a recent election of senior officers at Harvard, the ballot vote was padded by about fifty votes more than the number of Seniors. A re-election was ordered and a number of Seniors accused of participation in the affair will receive summary treatment and probably be expelled from the institution if the evidence warrants such action. The authorities of the institution are bewildered over the uncovering of the scheme. They cannot understand how such a condition could exist among students in an institution where the standards of individual honor hitherto have been unexcelled.

All Hail!

The following is the gentle manner in which the "Brown Daily Herald" draws the university athletes' attention to examination time:

"Baseball men! Hitting your exams hard means more home runs for Brown; flunking them may mean a home run for you."

California Non-Residents to Pay More.

The present tuition fee of $20 a year for non-resident students will be raised to $150, the increase taking effect next August. The action was largely in response to financial State officers who claimed that, in view of the heavy burden placed on the taxpayers at present for higher education, the State could no longer afford to extend free education to non-residents. The increased fee will yield a revenue of $100,000 a year to the university.

The Hip Pocket Habit.

A farmer living near Uniontown found a stick of dynamite while working about his stables and put it in his hip pocket. An hour later he was severely kicked by a mule and sent sky-high.

Dartmouth Will Have New Field.

Dartmouth undergraduates are starting a new campaign to raise their share of the $36,000 to be used in the rejuvenation of their athletic field, which field will be dedicated to the memory of the ninety Dartmouth men who lost their lives in the World War.

Missouri Wins Conference Contests.

The basketball team of the University of Missouri established its claim to the Missouri Valley Conference championship title by defeating the University of Kansas in two consecutive games by a score of 27 to 22 and 28 to 21. This series leaves Missouri and Nebraska the only undefeated teams in the Conference.

New Religious Courses at Illinois.

Three new courses in Religious Education will be given by Prof. E. S. Boyer, at the University of Illinois, beginning next semester. The courses are: "Old Testament History," "Expansion of Chritianity in Modern Times," and "History of Religion," and are to be given to all students with Sophomore standing or above.

Many Suffering From Spinach Poison.

Twenty-one members of the staff of Blodgeth Hospital, Grand Rapids, Michigan, are suffering from an undetermined poison, but are reported by hospital authorities to be responsive to treatment. It is being investigated whether or not the preserved spinach, which was served as food to the members, contains poison. Some of the suspected spinach has been given to guinea pigs, the animals dying shortly afterwards. By the use of a serum prepared at the University of Michigan, hospital officials hope to save the lives of the twenty-one members who have not yet succumbed to the poisoning. Three men have already died, and one is in a very critical condition.—Daily Illini.

AN EXCELLENT SNOWSHOERS' TEAM CHOSEN

Trials Held on Old Campus Yesterday Afternoon.

GOOD SHOWING.

Hamilton and Creelman Will Represent Old McGill at Dartmouth Carnival.

The Snowshoe Club held its trials yesterday afternoon on the old campus to decide what representatives would be sent to compete against Dartmouth. The field was in anything but ideal condition for running, but nevertheless the performances of all who turned out were very creditable. Mr. Gentleman, of the Arts Building, was in attendance to give the men the benefit of his experience, and his coaching has undoubtedly been an invaluable asset to the practices.

The two men chosen to go to Dartmouth are R. L. Hamilton and Creelman. Hamilton showed up very well in the sprints, and should give the American team a good run for the honors. Creelman, who has been training diligently for the last few weeks, won the distance events, and if he maintains his present form, will not be easily beaten by the Americans. Others who were trying out for the team were Simpson, Noonan, Davis and Stone, who, although they did not make the grade, left no doubt as to their merits. The Dartmouth Carnival takes place from February 10th to the 12th, and includes numerous ski-ing and snowshoeing events. Later in the month, February 25th, Dartmouth will enter men in the McGill tournament, in which snowshoers will also be represented.

This Saturday the M.A.A.A. and Nationals are staging a meet out in the latter's grounds in Maisonneuve. In this are McGill entrants also: King and Hamilton, for the sprints; Creelman, Davis, Simpson and Stephens, for the longer distances. This meet promises to be full of interest, and in the M.A.A.A. and Nationals the Red and White have opponents who are seasoned and in good condition. Although this great Canadian winter sport is still in its infancy at our University, great progress has been made, and is being made, in the way of interesting more students in it. Next winter should see snowshoeing ranking as one of the most popular of sports at McGill.

MEETING OF S.C.A. HELD BY R.V.C.

Question of Amalgamation With Men Was Discussed.

At a well-attended meeting of the Student Christian Association of R. V. C. on Wednesday afternoon, the question of amalgamation with the Christian Association of the men of McGill was discussed at length. It was the purpose to get an expression of the opinion of the women on this vital question, in order that it might be presented at the next meeting with the men. After a long discussion on the feasibility of amalgamation, and the exact aim of our association, a motion was carried to the effect that the aim is simply religious and not social. This means that religious meetings and bible classes will be held, but that social events will be carried on by the R.V.C. Undergraduate Society. It was moved that the men be told that the work of the R.V.C. Christian Association is purely religious, with no social aspect, and that, as this aim is not the same as theirs, which includes social activity, amalgamation does not at present seem practical.

Miss Dorothy Mathewson is going to Kingston this week-end for a meeting of the Regional Committee of the Student Christian Movement, on which she represents R.V.C. As a result of her request for the opinion of the Association on some matters to be discussed by the regional committee, motions were passed expressing the will of the meeting to be (1) that the services of a travelling secretary be dispensed with for one year, as it is desired to keep down expenses at first, and as her services will not be required, if it is possible for the regional committee to do the work of arranging for summer conferences, and (2) that the summer conferences be held in the autumn, just before the opening of college, instead of in the early summer as formerly. Tea was served and enjoyed by all.

HAMAR GREENWOOD GOT A BARONETCY WHILE HE WAITED

"That man is one of the ablest, as he certainly is the soundest, in the House of Commons. He is a survival of the real old Tory gentleman of a past decade, eloquent, courteous, and honest as the day. If there were only a few more like him the House would have a better reputation today."

The speaker was one of the most advanced Radicals of the day, a "Wee Free" to his backbone, and the surprising object of his admiration none other than the bitterest of political opponents, Andrew Bonar Law, official leader of the Unionist Party.

The remark is typical of public opinion in Britain today. Bonar Law is something more than a mere politician, he has developed into one of those rare beings, a national character. "Good old Bonar," says the man in the street as he rubs shoulders with the tall distinguished-looking individual with the kindly eyes and inevitable shiny "topper" walking down to the House of Commons—Bonar Law is a true democrat and prefers the use of his feet to an automobile. As a constituent remarked at his last election: "'E aint a Liberal nor a Tory, just a jolly good fellow."

Set the Thames on Fire.

This very spirit it is that has so endeared him to the hearts of the people over here, this and the romantic story which surrounds the success of the penniless New Brunswick lad who "set the Thames on fire" with his first political speech. It is certain that in this unique record can be discovered the spring-head of the amazing Canadian invasion of British public life during the past decade.

The stories now finding their way across the Atlantic beyond a doubt first fired the unconscious ambitions of the young Hamar Greenwood, then a clerk in the Ontario Agricultural Department, to similar feats. While Max Aitken, fresh from his financial triumphs in Montreal, was not slow to follow suit, and Gilbert Parker, meanwhile, was earning golden laurels in London literary circles.

The war was a triumph for Canada in England. At home, while across the narrow channel her soldiers were claiming immortal triumphs on the grey Flanders battlefields, in the charnel-house of the Ypres Salient, two of New Brunswick's sons, silently but surely were marshalling their forces for an engagement that historians will acclaim the greatest of the war.

The Reconstruction.

It was sometime in the fall of 1916 that Lord Beaverbrook, then Sir Max Aitken, was commissioned by Lloyd-George to undertake the reconstruction of the Coalition——surely the most difficult task over undertaken by diplomat or politician.

The situation was tense. Asquith, that greatest of peace-time parliamentarians, could only meet the insistent problems of war with an indecision and blind optimism which threatened every hour to precipitate the Empire in disaster. A nasty undercurrent was abroad or treachery in high places. The fighting forces, lacking in shells and suitable ammunition, were fast losing morale. Immediate action was imperative; a miracle was necessary. Public opinion was fully alive to the nature of that miracle, but its accomplishment baffled imagination. That is until Max Aitken appeared on the scene, and then in a very short time, Mr. Asquith resigned with the best grace that he could muster.

Only time will reveal the true inner history of these dramatic days.

Bonar Law Declines Premiership.

But Canada's triumph was not yet at an end. The following day King George summoned Bonar Law to the palace to offer him the premiership. It was a test of character which only the strongest could survive. On the one hand was ambition relentlessly urging the acceptance of that unique honor without precedent offered to a Dominion statesman; on the other belief chided conscience that he was not the best man for the job. The Canadian spirit won through. Even before he set out for the palace on that historic December morning it was an open secret that he would refuse. For once rumor proved correct, and Lloyd-George was appointed in his place.

While all this was taking place yet another Canadian was gradually but surely fighting his way to the front in public life.

For over eight years before the war Hamar Greenwood had served the Liberal Party loyally and well as senior member for York City. Already he had earned for himself that enviable reputation, 'a coming man.' The ball was at his feet when the All-Highest took it upon himself to run amuck over Europe. Had he but remained behind all kinds of attractions, including early promotion to cabinet rank, were his for the asking, but the young statesman from Whitby, Ontario, chose to throw in his lot with the Army in France. Without hesitation he joined up, and rose rapidly to the rank of a Colonel and was appointed to the command of one of the New Army battalions.

Greenwood Made a Baronet.

On the eve of his departure for the front he called at Downing Street to say good-bye to his old friend, Mr. Lloyd-George, then Minister of Munitions. "Is there anything I can do for you before you go out?" asked the latter.

Greenwood hesitated: "There is one thing," he admitted, "though it is not for myself that I ask. I have a little son—I would like him to have a title if anything should happen to me out there."

"Oh, that's easily arranged," replied Lloyd George, "if you don't mind waiting a few minutes." And he hurried from the room.

Within ten minutes he was back. "That's all right," he calmly announced. "I have seen Mr. Asquith. He will forward your name to the King for a baronetcy."

The present Secretary for Ireland migrated to England when little more than a boy. "I have come over to England to get on, and get on I will," he proudly announced to a fellow traveller.

After a brief spell as a barrister, for some years Greenwood stumped the country on the prohibition ticket, his eloquence in that cause bringing him before the notice of Cadbury, the famous cocoa manufacturer and a red-hot teetotaler. Cadbury was so impressed with his capabilities that he put up the necessary money for him to fight York for the Liberal Party. Greenwood was successful at his first attempt. How amply this kindly interest was repaid may be judged by the fact that during the last five years, in addition to his baronetcy and promotion to the rank of colonel, Hamar Greenwood has been appointed a K.C., Privy Councillor and finally Secretary for Ireland—no mean record.

To-day there is not a branch of public life in this country in which a representative of Canada is not to the fore. Beaverbrook, proprietor of the powerful "Daily Express," is regarded in influential circles as a future prime minister. In literature, Stephen Leacock unconditionally has been bracketed with Gilbert Parker and acclaimed the "Humorist of the Empire." Lord Morris, of Newfoundland, is a pillar of the financial world, and Colonel Grant-Morden, of Prince Edward County, is one of the most powerful men in London.

It must be as Lord Burnham remarked recently at the Canadian Association dinner: "Everybody in Canada is a member of the 'Cocksure Club,' and a fine club it is!"

THE GOLDEN FLEECE.

There is no more fascinating story of enterprise than the legend of the Golden Fleece. Enterprise, endeavor, overcoming of the seemingly impossible, the name gave a fitting title to the Order of Chivalry created by Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy, in the year 1429, during the celebrations of his marriage at Bruges in January of that year. The idea had long been in his thoughts, and it was in no wise to be an order merely to gratify vanity among the few admitted, it was to be a standard that was to be lived up to in order to carry out the statesman-like views that made Philip known to his people as "the Good."

Out of the group of ancient principalities under his rule, he wished to form a solidly constructed state, which if it lasted would, for the good of Europe, have constituted a barrier between France and Germany. This state, stretching from the North Sea to Switzerland, would have taken the place of ancient Lotharingia, and might have been the guardian of the peace in Western Europe.

Professor Turlingen, writing in the Edinburgh Review, asks why the ancient order should not again be revived by King Albert the Good, and Belgium possess an order of chivalry to compare with the Garter of England, the Seraphim of Sweden, the Elephant of Denmark and the Lion of Norway.

When you buy, mention the "Daily."

STRONG TEAM COMING FROM QUEEN CITY

'Varsity Tied With McGill For First Place.

McGILL CONFIDENT.

Fast Intermediate Game To Precede Contest by Inter-Collegiate Seniors.

The Basketball Team has its work cut out to win on Saturday against Toronto 'Varsity if the reports about the strength of the latter team are correct. In the game with Queen's on Saturday last 'Varsity were the winners by a score of 38 to 17. The "Varsity," the newspaper of the Toronto students, states that Queen's had at times twice the number of shots that the home team had, but were unable to find the basket.

Even though the shooting eyes of the Queen's forwards were not working, the 'Varsity outfit must be pretty strong to run up such an immence score during the game. Naturally, Queen's would find the floor strange, and there has been complaints about the backboards in the Toronto gymnasium, but these differences would not be responsible for such a victory.

The McGill team thinks that it can put up an argument with the best in the country, and will go on the floor full of confidence. They feel that in teams such as the M.A.A.A. and Highlanders they have met outfits as good as anything from other parts of the country, and they are expecting to win their second straight victory in the Intercollegiate League this Saturday.

The news that Toronto has such a strong aggregation will be welcome to all of the students about the College who were hoping for a fast game. The team which wins this Saturday will be at the top of the league, and will not be easily dislodged from that position. Taking it for granted that McGill can duplicate her victory over Queen's when that team comes here, a victory for the Red and White outfit on Saturday would mean that Toronto would have to win all of the remaining games to tie our team, and, incidentally, this would mean defeating McGill in the return game at Toronto.

In order that the spectators may not be kept waiting, a preliminary game is being played immediately before the Intercollegiate game between M.A.A.A. and McGill Intermediates. This is a regular game in the Montreal Basketball League, and will be keenly contested by the teams.

Mr. McCutcheon has been secured as the referee for the Intercollegiate game. He has refereed some of the more important games in the city this year, and there has never been a complaint from the competing teams. He will keep the play clean and fast, and make it all the more interesting to watch.

The tickets for the game on Saturday afternoon may still be obtained at the porter's desk in the Union. They are priced at fifty cents, and are selling rapidly. The seating arrangements at the Highlanders' gymnasium 429, Bleury Street, are such that everyone has a good view of the game. The preliminary game starts at 2.15, and the Intercollegiate game at 3.15 p.m.

FINALISTS OF B., W. AND F. DECIDED UPON

who gained one fall. It was very close, and Emmons showed some good defensive work.

Brewer, Comm. '23, and Shackell, Comm. '23, college champions in the 145 and 135 lb. classes respectively, gave an exhibition. There was some hard hitting, which pleased the crowd well.

John Long, of Law, McGill middleweight champion, and Rabinovitch, of the Westmount High, boxed in a no decision bout of three rounds. It was a good performance, and the High School lad did well.

Bain, Sci. '21, and Armstrong, Sci. '23, middleweight wrestlers, afforded lots of excitement. In the beginning of the first period, Bain was the under-dog, but towards the last the positions were reversed. An extra period was called for, and Armstrong won the decision on points.

Rumple and Freedman, both of Sci. '24, fought it out in the light heavyweight wrestling. Rumple threw Freedman down with a headlock, gaining a fall. The period ended without further falls, Rumple winning the championship.

Martineau, Arts '24, college champion, and Dave McKeen, Intercollegiate heavyweight wrestling champion, gave a two-round boxing exhibition.

The last performance of the evening was the final of the 135-lb. wrestling between Currie, Comm. '23, and Irvine, Arts '24. Irvine hit his head badly when Currie threw him onto the mat with a standing crotch hold. Irvine hurt his head again later on, and could not continue. The bout was then awarded to Currie. There were no falls.

The college champions are as follows:

WRESTLING.

110-lb. Class—Bryant, Sci. '24.
118-lb. Class—Macdonald, Med. '26.
125-lb. Class—Matthews, Med. '24.
135-lb. Class—Currie, Comm. '23.
145-lb. Class—Montgomery, Com. '23.
158-lb. Class—Armstrong, Sci. '25.
175-lb. Class—Rumple, Sci. '24.
Over 175-lb. Class—McKeen, Sci. '22.

BOXING.

110-lb. Class—Mirsky, Arts '21.
118-lb. Class—Chisholm, Law '21.
125-lb. Class—Edelberg, Arts '24.
135-lb. Class—Shackell, Comm. '23.
145-lb. Class—Brewer, Comm. '23.
158-lb. Class—Long, Law '21.
Over 175-lb. Class—Martineau, Arts '24.

FENCING.

Walter, Arts '23.

The B., W. & F. are to be congratulated on having a very successful set of bouts.

LAST YR'S ANNUAL AT REDUCED PRICE

To Be Had For $1.50 at R.V.C., Union, Arts and Science Buildings.

In future the price of the 1921 (last year's) Annual will be $1.50 (one dollar and fifty cents). This decision, to reduce the price by half, was reached at a meeting of the Annual Board held last night. The Board is faced with a considerable deficit on the account of last year's book, and the price has been cut below cost in order to meet liabilities as far as possible. A considerable number of books remain unsold, and it is hoped that now there will be a brisk demand.

The 1921 Annual (that is last year's) is on sale at the Union, the Arts Building, the Science Building, and the R. V. C. At all these places it may be obtained from the respective janitors. It is not at present being put on sale at the Medical Faculty since any demand, which ever existed, appears to have been satisfied. However, if the slightest indication to the contrary be received the janitor of the New Medical Building will at once be given books to dispose of.

This is the last Annual that will ever be published at McGill; at least that is the present prospect. It is being replaced by the Year Book. So that the McGill Annual 1921 forms the last volume of a long and revered shelf.

If this traditional aspect does not appeal it should surely be kept in mind that last year's book was the most complete which ever appeared. In fact it would be true to say that no perennial publication will ever achieve greater completeness. Not a single club or association was left unmentioned — they practically all had three pages devoted to them, including a photograph and a drawing. Every student also in the University last year had his photograph in the Annual. The size of the book was unprecedented.

The Annual Board arrived at another important decision. Even if all the remaining books be sold obligations cannot be met. There will still be a deficit. In order to overcome this it is necessary to make a levy on last year's Juniors (this year's Seniors) of one dollar apiece. Members of the Annual Board will collect this personally from their respective Faculties.

MACDONALD BEATEN BY PHYSICAL EDS.

Hard Playing Featured Hockey at St. Anne.

The Physical Eds. got away to a good start yesterday by beating the Macdonald girls on the College rink at St. Anne's. Despite the one-sided nature of the score, both teams played a good brand of hockey, and play was at times very exciting. The McGill girls excelled in their speed and combination, displaying a brand of hockey that at times was comparable to that shown by the Intercollegiate squad.

Miss MacLaren, who showed brilliant stick-handling, and Miss Porritt, who scored no less than four goals, were the pick of the winners.

The Macdonald team put forth a fairly good exhibition despite apparent lack of practice together. The game was ably handled by Mr. Phil Silver, of Medicine, and his decisions were very impartial.

Many thanks are due to the committee in charge at Macdonald for the hospitality shown to the visiting team, who returned to Montreal after a light lunch.

The teams lined up as follows:

M. S. P. E.		Macdonald
E. Jenks	Goal	D. Ewing
Q. Savage	Defence	J. Abbott
M. Black	Defence	A. Ross
D. Porritt	Forward	H. Mathieson
J. Whillans	Forward	M. Wallace
F. MacLaren	Forward	M. Jones
I. Munro	Sub.	M. Jamieson
G. Gallery	Sub.	E. Hodge

INTER-CLASS HOCKEY NEAR TERMINATION

Commerce and Arts Play Draw Yesterday.

REVISED SCHEDULE.

Inter-Faculty "All-Star" Series Will Be Started Soon.

There has been a tendency for rough and dirty play to creep into inter-class games. Recent examples have been observed of a flagrant character and appear to arise from the mistaken notion in the heads of certain players and team captains that anything which is not detected is legitimate.

University sport is for the most part remarkably clean and it is the intention of the Hockey Manager to see that class games are no exception to this rule. Yesterday the Commerce team persisted in indulging in deliberate foul play, a practice which would not have been tolerated had not a certain amount of retaliation been observed on the part of Arts.

In future such practices will be severely dealt with and any man incurring a second major penalty will be sent off for the balance of the game. Rough and dirty play is unworthy of a gentleman and a sportsman, and will be stamped out ruthlessly and impartially. Team Captains will be well advised to instruct any of their players who may be deficient in that respect in the ethics of sport, and not to play men whose tempers are uncontrollable. It is hoped that no further action will be necessary, but any further incidents will lead to disciplinary action which may amount to disqualification of a team or merely to suspension of individuals.

Practice Hours.

Monday (1 to 2 p.m.) is allotted to the Wesleyans and Diocesan Colleges for a challenge game.

It is possible that hours on the Women's Rink may have to be discontinued at the end of the present week. A readjustment of hours on a faculty basis will be arranged but First and Second years will be first provided for.

All-Star Interfaculty Series.

At a meeting of Class Managers yesterday it was decided to start an All-Star series as soon as the present contest is completed. A few days will be allowed for arrangements and the series should commence on next Monday week.

Regulations will be exactly the same as for inter-class games, except that no eliminations will take place. A single series will be awarded on points, and ties will be played off. Two twenty-minute periods and no overtime.

Class managers will meet the other managers in their faculty and elect a faculty manager to arrange practice hours according to mutual convenience out of existing hours. The names of all managers of Faculty teams must be submitted with name and phone to the Hockey Manager at the Union before Saturday at noon, the 5th inst., or entries cannot be accepted.

Class managers are requested to approach persons suitable to act as referees who would be willing to take a specified night or nights. They should notify the Hockey Manager at the Union the names of these men and their faculty, years and phones. The intention of the Manager is to establish a board of referees who would each referee not more than one or two games. Games would be either 5.15 to 6.15 or 6.15 to 7.15 p.m.

This series does not carry any reward except the title of All-Star Inter-Faculty Champions.

Manager,

night. The snow that fell last night ought to make the conditions ideal for this race.

The men who won their respective events in yesterday's trials are asked to get in all the practice they can in their respective events between now and the time the team leaves for Dartmouth, next week.

The executive are once again reminded to be on time for the picture that is to be taken at five o'clock this afternoon at Notman's Studio.

MACDONALD LOSE TO McGILL REDS

Fine Pitching by Henry Responsible For Defeat of Last Year's Champions.

Change of pitchers and steady hitting turned defeat into victory for the McGill Reds, when they beat the Macdonald College Staff by 31 to 26 in a fast game of indoor baseball. By beating last year's champions the "Reds" showed themselves a dangerous team, one that will require a lot of beating in the Championship race.

Macdonald started out strongly and gained an early lead of two runs. This they maintained for the first third of the game. McGill cut down their lead, and for the next three innings the game was remarkably even. Henry was put on to pitch in Cockshutt's place, Cockshutt replacing Burke. The change took immediate effect, as in the last three innings Macdonald only scored four runs. The "Reds" rapidly piled up the score, and the result was never in doubt after the seventh inning.

Carruthers, of McGill, replaced Crawford in the second inning, and did some heavy hitting, including two triples, two doubles and a single. These hits came very opportunely. Cockshutt also hit well, scoring a homer with two men on bases. Brussiere made a double play in the first inning, pulling off a couple of sensational catches. Henry's pitching in the last three innings in the final part of the game was the decisive factor.

For the Macdonald Staff Sommerby pitched a fair game and hit well. Heslop, however, played best for the Staff by hitting safely six times out of the seven he was at bat. Macdonald played well, but were held powerless towards the close.

A ROYAL PRESENTATION.

I shall never forget my bitter disappointment the first time I was taken, at a very early age, to see Queen Victoria. I had pictured to myself a dazzling apparition arrayed in sumptuous robes, seated on a golden throne; a glittering crown on her head, a sceptre in one hand, an orb grasped in the other. I had fancied Her Majesty seated thus, motionless during the greater part of the twenty-four hours, simply "reigning." I could have cried with disappointment when a middle-aged lady, simply dressed . . . rose from an ordinary armshair to receive us. I duly made my bow, but having a sort of idea that it had to be indefinitely repeated, went on nodding like a porcelain Chinese mandarin, until ordered to stop.

Between ourselves, I behaved far better than a brother of mine once did under similar circumstances. Many years before I was born, my father lent his Scotch house to Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort for ten days. This entailed by two eldest sisters and two eldest brothers vacating their nurseries in favor of the Royal children, and their being transferred to the farm, where they had very cramped quarters indeed. My second brother deeply resented being turned out of his comfortable nursery, and refused to be placated. On the day after the Queen's arrival, my mother took her four eldest children to present them to Her Majesty, my sisters dressed in their best clothes, my brothers being in kilts. They were duly instructed as to how they were to behave, and upon being presented, my two sisters made their curtsies, and my eldest brother made his best bow. "And this, Your Majesty, is my second boy. Make your bow, dear," said my mother; but my brother, his heart still hot within him at being expelled from his nursery, instead of bowing, stood on his head in his kilt, and remained like that, an accomplishment of which he was very proud. The Queen was exceedingly angry, so later in the day, upon my brother professing deep penitence, he was taken back to make his apologies, when he did precisely the same thing over again and was consequently in disgrace during the whole of the Royal visit. In strict confidence, I believe that he would still do it to-day, more than seventy-two years later.—"The Days Before Yesterday." Lord Frederic Hamilton.
